Your telegram intercepted me at Newport last night, and greatly surprised me. Mr. Scudder has agreed that we each attend to our own business and not to interfere with the other, each to charge such rates as he pleases, and Scudder to carry any part of my mail whenever requested to do so. There is no other arrangement. Did the merchants and steamboatimen who you say are charging that there is a sell-out to Scudder, expect a steamboat fight to last a few years? I can't afford it. Memphis will ever hereafter, by this arrangement, have one boat a week to Vicksburg, and when businers will justify it too, our prices will be low, in the hope of bringing business there. Could more be expected? Look back and see all the men who ever run lines from Memphis to Vicksburg; they are all broke. Do these merchants and boatmen now complaining want to see me in the same fix? How it is Done by Coroners and Magistrates-No Record Kept of the Proceeding in any Court of Record or by the Coroner or Magistrates.

An APPEAL commissioner yesterday un dertook an investigation with reference dead people upon whose remains coroner nquests were held, with a view to develo the true inwardness of such legal proceed ings, and to show the incompleteness of the State law governing such proceedings. When a sudden death occurs, by accident or under suspicious circumstances, the coroner or magistrate is usually sent for to hold an in quest and investigate the cause of death. H goes to work at once to summon a jury of seven men to hear and determine the matter, and to summon witnes es to testify in the case. When the jury returns a verdict the body turned over to the friends of the deceased, any appear, or in their absence, the body turned over to the county undertaker interment in the potters field. The fees of the coroner or magistrate in cases of inques are as follows: For holding inquest, $5; summoning each juror, 15c; total for sum moning jurors, $1 05; summoning each wit ness, 25c. The jurors and witnesses received no pay for their services.

The coroner or magistrate files the return court and takes a receipt therefor, which h presents and files with his account for fee with the clerk of the county court, to be acted upon and allowed at the next session of the county court. If any money or property i found on the person of the deceased it is usually turned over to the county trustee and a receipt taken for the same, but hardly ever any money or property of value is found the bodies inquested.

NO RECORD IS KEPT. The clerk of the criminal court merely files away the returns of inquests, but he keeps no docket or record, numbered, in such cases, so that should an investigation be made afterward by the relatives or friends of the deceased, the clerk has to look over the mass of papers on file in order to find the record or papers wanted. The reason why no docket or other record is kept of such matters by the clerk of the criminal court is that the law does not provide for such a thing, and provides for no renumeration for such work. The law in this respect is wofully defective as are many other general and special law of the State.

WHY A RECORD SHOULD BE KEPT. There are many potent reasons why a record of suicides should be elaborately kept by some clerk of court or other official. suicide may have property, may have an in-surance policy on his life, may be interested in important law suits of great interest to his or her heirs, and without this record it is often a difficult matter to prove the death. A well informed magistrate informed our reporter that he has had many times to go into court and prove the death of some person who was a suicide, and upon whose remains he had held an inquest. Should the magistrate die, this proof would be impossible to make. He had received scores of letters from relatives of deceased persons, asking for information cor cerning the suicides.
